M TAYLOR, NOV. 25, 1895.

CURED THE HORSE.—A young man in Alexandria visited Washington a few days ago and while here purchased a preparation for curing horses of balking. He owns a handsome animal that has this fault, although otherwise it is a very desirable horse. The preparation was to be applied to the flanks and was guaranteed. He tested it upon a workhorse he possessed and it operated to perfection. Then he invited a young lady to go riding with him, and hitching his handsome horse to a buggy, started. When a hill was reached he applied the remedy. A moment later the swingle-tree flew over his head and the girl fainted, then the dashboard fell in, followed by a crash as the floor of the buggy received a blow from the horse's hoofs. At this juncture the animal started ahead, as the seller of the remedy had guaranteed. He took the shafts and front wheels with him, but left the rest of the vehicle and the occupants in the road. The couple walked three miles to their homes in silence, and the young man called on a lawyer Friday to ascertain how much he can recover from the man who sold him the stuff, as a recompense for the loss of the buggy and the affections of the girl.—Washington Star.

A SENSATIONAL EPISODE.—A somewhat sensational episode occurred in society and educational circles at Bristol, on Saturday. Prof. H. W. Naff, former president of King College, and at present a professor in the Southwest Virginia Institute, was talking to a friend on Main street, when King James, a well-known young gentleman of the city, crossed him, demanding an apology for an alleged insult. A few words were passed, when James struck the professor a heavy blow in the face. Bystanders interfered and stopped the affair, but not until Sam Burton, who thought his friend James was not getting fair play, struck the professor across the head with a cane. None of the blows are serious. The difficulty arose out of the professor asking James to discontinue smoking on the street car conveying the young lady pupils to the college. James considered it an insult, and demanded an apology.

How to Prevent Croup.—SOME READING THAT WILL PROVE INTERESTING TO YOUNG MOTHERS. HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THE DISEASE. Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by L. Stabler & Co., Druggists.

The demand for Ayer's Hair Vigor in such wide-spread regions as South America, Spain, Australia, and India has kept pace with the home consumption, which goes to show that these people know a good thing when they try it.

Winter Excursion Tickets.—On November 1st the Pennsylvania Railroad company placed on sale excursion tickets to all prominent winter resorts in New Jersey, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Cuba. The tickets are sold at the usual low rate.

The magnificent facilities of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with its many connections, make this the favorite line for winter travel. An illustrated book, descriptive of winter resorts, and giving routes of travel and rates for tickets, will be furnished free on application to ticket agents.

The CENTURY FOR THE COMING YEAR.
The Century Magazine celebrates its quarter-century in its November issue. In honor of the occasion it dons a new dress of type and appears in a new and artistic cover. The programme for the coming year contains a number of interesting features. Mrs. Humphry Ward's new novel, "Sir George Trevelyan," has been secured for its pages. The story will be the leading feature in fiction for the coming twelve months, other and shorter novels being contributed by W. D. Howells, F. Hopkinson Smith, Mary Balloch Foote, and Amelia E. Barr. There will also be contributions from Mark Twain and E. V. Rieu; a series of articles on the great naval engagements of Nelson, by Captain Alfred T. Mahan; three articles on Rome, contributed by Marion Crawford, and superbly illustrated; a series of articles by George Kennan, on the Mountains and the Mountains of the Eastern Caucasus; articles by Henry M. Stanley and the late E. J. Glave on Africa; a series of papers on "The Administration of the Cities of the United States," by Dr. Albert Shaw. The Century will also contain during the year a greater number of papers on art subjects, richly illustrated. Prof. Sloane's "Life of Napoleon," with its wealth of illustration, will reach its most interesting part. In order that new subscribers may obtain the whole of this monumental work, the publishers have made a rate of $5 for which one can have a year's subscription from November '95, and all of the numbers for the past twelve months, from the beginning of Prof. Sloane's history.

St. Nicholas in 1896.
For almost a quarter of a century St. Nicholas Magazine has been bearing its welcome message each month to the young people of the land. It has been fortunate in securing contributions for its pages from leading writers and artists, which have given to its readers many works that have become imperishable classics in juvenile literature. The magazine is a help to those that have the care and upbringing of children, in that it is full of brightness and interest and tends to cultivate high aspirations without being "crunchy" and prosy. During the coming year the leading feature will be a series of letters written to young people from Samoa by Robert Louis Stevenson. Rudyard Kipling will write for it, and James Whitcomb Riley will contribute a poem to the Christmas number. "The Swordmaker's Son" is a story of boy-life in Palestine at the time of the founding of Christianity. It is written by W. O. Stoddard. "The Prize Poet" is one of J. T. Trowbridge's best stories. "Alfred Stearns" is written another story, in "Sinbad, Smith & Co." he has again gone to "The Arabian Nights" for inspiration. These are but a few of the features. During the coming year $1,000 will be given away in prizes.
